Police Psychology

Wednesday, May 14 (8:30 A.M. – 4:30 P.M.)

Mark Zelig, Ph.D., ABPP

This introductory workshop provides an overview of police psychology. It focuses on case law and scientific and ethical issues in providing psychological services to law enforcement agencies. Specific topics include pre-employment psychological screening; providing clinical services for law enforcement personnel; fitness for duty evaluations; profiling; and other forms of crime-specific consultation.

Mark Zelig, Ph.D. conducts a forensic practice based in Salt Lake City. He is a board certified in both Forensic and Clinical Psychology by the American Board of Professional Psychology. A retired police commander, Dr. Zelig has served on the American Psychological Association's Committee on Legal Issues.

Ethical Issues in Forensic Practice

Wednesday, May 14 (8:45 A.M. – 4:45 P.M.)

Alan Goldstein, Ph.D., ABPP

This workshop explores ethical conflicts that psychologists encounter when working as forensic practitioners. Topics include: one's competence to practice; confidentiality; roles of the expert; issues in assessment; responding to subpoenas; release of test data; and ultimate opinion testimony. Emphasis is on reducing the likelihood of ethics complaints and malpractice actions.

Dr. Goldstein is board certified in forensic psychology by the American Board of Professional Psychology and is on the faculty of John Jay College of Criminal Justice. He serves on the American Board of Forensic Psychology and directs the continuing education program for the American Academy of Forensic Psychology. He is editor of Forensic Psychology (2003), and Forensic Psychology: Emerging Topics and Expanding Roles (2007), both published by John Wiley & Sons.

Adolescents as Adults in Court

Thursday, May 15 (8:30 A.M. – 4:30 P.M.)

Elizabeth Cauffman, Ph.D.

This workshop adds the perspective of developmental psychology to the current debate about the appropriateness of transferring juvenile offenders to adult court. Research is presented on the development of legally-relevant competencies, capacities, and capabilities and to suggest whether a jurisdictional boundary should be drawn between juveniles and adults, and if so, at what age it should be drawn.

Dr. Cauffman is Associate Professor of Psychology and Social Behavior at the University of California, Irvine. Her work focuses on mental health assessments of juveniles, and how adolescent development is relevant to understanding juveniles' delinquent conduct and involvement in and understanding of the legal process.

Conducting Child Custody Evaluations: Procedure, Ethics, Case Law & Decision Making

Thursday, May 15 (8:45 A.M. – 4:45 P.M.)

Marsha Hedrick, Ph.D., ABPP

This will be an introductory workshop detailing how to conduct a complete, ethical, and clinically relevant evaluation. Topics will include: Recent research in the area, avoiding bias, choosing a forensically responsible test protocol, parental alienation, sexual abuse allegations, access schedules, dealing with attorneys.

Marsha Hedrick, PhD., is a diplomate in Forensic Psychology - ABPP and on the board for ABFP. She is in independent practice in Seattle and has been appointed by family courts in over 500 custody disputes.

The Role of the Forensic Psychologist in Death Penalty Litigation

Friday, May 16 (8:30 A.M. – 4:30 P.M.)

Mark Cunningham, Ph.D., ABPP

This workshop provides a review of death penalty litigation and case law, focusing on assessing aggravating and mitigating factors in capital cases. Topics include the politics of the death penalty; ethical considerations in capital sentencing evaluations; the relevance of Antisocial Personality Disorder; post-conviction and appellate processes; and evaluation and expert testimony.

Dr. Cunningham, who is board certified in forensic psychology by the American Board of Forensic Psychology, has extensive experience in state and federal capital cases throughout the country. In 2006 Dr. Cunningham received the APA Award for Distinguished Contribution to Research in Public Policy for his work regarding capital sentencing evaluations and death row populations.

Psycholegal Assessment of Employment Discrimination & Sexual Harassment Allegations

Friday, May 16 (8:45 A.M. – 4:45 P.M.)

Herbert N. Weissman, Ph.D., ABPP

This workshop explores concepts and methods for conducting legally relevant evaluations in cases involving sexual harassment and workplace discrimination. Emphasis is on assessing psychological impact of claimed disparate treatment (based on gender, age, race, national origin). A model is presented for gathering findings and weighing differential effects of proximate versus alternate sources of stress and impairment, and for preparing written reports and testimony.

Dr. Weissman is in the independent practice of clinical and forensic psychology in San Diego and is Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at U.C. Davis and U.C. San Diego. A Fellow of A.P.A. (Divisions 12 and 41), and of SPA, he holds diplomates in both Clinical and Forensic Psychology, and was Past President of the American Board of Forensic Psychology and the California Psychological Association.

Stalking: The State of the Science

Saturday, May 17 (8:30 A.M. – 4:30 P.M.)

Reid Meloy, Ph.D., ABPP

This workshop considers what is known about stalking - an old behavior, but a new crime. Demographics, clinical findings, motivational and pursuit patterns, violence, threatening communications, and other characteristics are explored in both public figures and private domain contexts. Violence risk assessment and management are emphasized through case studies.

Dr. Meloy is board certified in forensic psychology by the American Board of Forensic Psychology and is an Associate Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at the University of California-San Diego and an Adjunct Professor at the University of San Diego School of Law. He is author of eight books, including Violent Attachments (1992), The Psychology of Stalking: Clinical and Forensic Perspectives (1998), and The Scientific Pursuit of Stalking (2006).

Forensic Report Writing

Saturday, May 17 (8:45 A.M. – 4:45 P.M.)

Thomas Grisso, Ph.D., ABPP

This limited registration workshop provides guidance for writing forensic reports and is designed to assist forensic clinicians in fine tuning their report-writing skills, consistent with standards that have evolved in ABFP's review of reports submitted as practice samples for the ABFP examination process. The focus is on principles of organization and style, content, and communication of opinions that generalize across all forensic reports. The format includes lecture, discussion, and review of excerpts from sample reports.

Dr. Grisso is board certified in forensic psychology by the American Board of Professional Psychology, and is Professor of Psychiatry, Director of Psychology, and Coordinator of the Law and Psychiatry Program at the University of Massachusetts Medical School. He is the author of numerous books on law, policy, and forensic practice and has received awards for his contributions to forensic practice from the American Psychological Association and American Academy of Forensic Psychology.

Malingering and Forensic Practice: Conceptual Issues and Clinical Methods

Sunday, May 18 (8:30 A.M. – 4:30 P.M.)

Richard Rogers, Ph.D., ABPP

This advanced workshop provides a conceptual framework for malingering with an emphasis on validated detection strategies and focuses on the use of psychological measures (e.g., MMPI-2 and PAI) to assess feigned mental disorders. Updated research on the SIRS is provided and, as a secondary focus, advances in the assessment of feigned cognitive impairments are reviewed. Participants are asked to bring a very brief feigning issue for the wrap-up discussion.

Dr. Rogers, Professor of Psychology at the University of North Texas, is author of the Structured Interview of Reported Symptoms and recently completed editing the 3rd edition of Clinical Assessment of Malingering and Deception. In 2007, he was presented with the Halpern Award for Distinguished Contributions to Clinical Psychology in recognition of his work in forensic assessment.
